Note: Individual consultations, including practice sessions, are conducted in person with their instructor at the department, with one instructor providing consultations on any given course or practical.

The method for conducting individual consultations, including practice sessions, by instructors is determined by the format of the seminar-type classes for the course:

1) When classes are conducted in person, individual consultations, including practice sessions, are conducted in person.

2) When classes are conducted remotely, individual lessons, including practice sessions, are conducted using distance learning technologies and e-learning. In this case, the student submits a request in the "Individual Consultations and Practice Sessions" forum for the relevant course on the EIEP, and the instructor, depending on the reason for the outstanding debt (valid or invalid) and the amount of outstanding debt for the course, determines the time and method of interaction with the student, either synchronously or asynchronously.
