

Methodology for conducting a distance format for studying English medium students in the discipline "Pharmacology"

Preparation for the lesson is carried out according to the traditional plan. Acquaintance with the materials of the lecture, the main list of literature (posted in <https://elearning.volgmed.ru>).

According to the schedule and thematic plan for seminar-type classes, the student is obliged to complete an individual task according to the following plan:

1. In writing, complete the prescription assignment (write out a prescription and characteristics) according to the list of mandatory drugs).
2. Prepare a compendium for the lesson (handwritten text), using the materials of the D.A.Kharkevich textbook and lectures (posted in <https://elearning.volgmed.ru>). Mandatory elements of the abstract are the classification of drugs, pharmacological characteristics (mechanisms of action, indications for use, side effects) of certain groups of drugs.

By the time the class ends, students should send materials to the head of the group in the form of a photo report. On each sheet, the student must write the full name. Group leaders should send materials to their teachers by e-mail by the time corresponding to the end of the lesson (for example, if the lesson is scheduled on Monday at 8:30 -12:00, then all materials should be sent on Monday no later than at 12:00).

The teacher checks the work and during the day informs the head of the group about students' grades for the work done.

Work not provided on time is equivalent to missing classes.

Extra-classes of missed lessons are agreed individually with the teacher by e-mail.
